MORE CHILDREN

Tubercular Home at Alamogordo Wishes To Take El Paso's Diseased.

Alamogordo, N. M., July 21.—There is a movement on foot by the management of the Children's National Tuberculosis society, of this place, to make arrangements to take care of a number of El Paso children at the home in College addition to Alamogordo. Throughout the balance of the summer, recently a number of the tubercular children who have been in the charge of the institution for from one year to 18 months were sent to their homes in the eastern states, leaving room at the home for a like number. The children from El Paso may fill this vacancy.

The grounds at the institution are in excellent shape and afford a delightful playground for the children. The grounds comprise about 18 acres and are set with Carolina poplars and other varieties of shrub and trees. The buildings include a large two-story brick structure, which was originally built for a college, is now used for the main building and the dormitory, which is built of stone and is about one block north of the main building. Miss Hebel is the resident superintendent and matron in charge of the home, a position she has held since the society was first organized. H. P. Baker is in charge of the grounds and has charge of tree and flower culture.

A local lodge of the Woodmen of the World will be reorganized tonight under the direction of G. E. McDonald, deputy for New Mexico and Arizona. The Woodmen had an active camp here at one time with a large membership, but during recent years there have been no meetings of the order and membership has diminished considerably.

Harry Saulsberry, city clerk, has purchased the B. Spillars residence property northeast of Tenth street in College addition. Besides the buildings on the place there are a number of bearing fruit trees and a garden. Mr. Saulsberry will move his family to his new residence.

Beauty Baths

BATHING is one of the most necessary beauty aids. It keeps the pores of the skin free from the lint of one's clothes and the dust of the air, which combines with the oily waste thrown off through these drain-pipes by the body. The combination is a clogging mass in each tiny pore, and the result is that the poisonous waste goes back into the blood again, to lower its efficiency.

And the inevitable result of this is, that the poisonous blood particles will seek their outlet some other way. Usually, they will seek to come out on the face, forming pimples and blackheads.

Of course, the daily hot bath will not prevent this facial condition, since one cause of the poisonous blood is in the digestion. And another cause may be in a clogged colon. If both colon and stomach are overworked, or not in proper condition, there will be all the more poisonous matter that will seek to escape through the blood and the pores.

At the same time, the pores can nourish the body. Anemic babies and old people are nourished by having olive oil rubbed into the pores when the stomach cannot receive the needed amount of food. Now, sea salt is a tonic—consequently, a salt bath will help keep the entire body in condition. Sea salt, already cleaned, comes in bags of ten cents each, and one bag will last for a week of daily baths. If the tub is only run half full or less.

Only the purest soap should be used, glycerine, oatmeal, olive oil or castile being the best. These soften and whiten the skin, making its texture finer.

Questions and Answers

How can I remove hair from under my arms? Will that prevent the odor of perspiration? What will a dancer?

Reply—There are half a dozen hair-removers on the market which will remove the hair from the arms all right, but which I would not advise to use on the face. Or, you can shave under them with a safety razor. In either case the hairs will grow again.

Having the bath convenient establishes the habit

I do not advise deodorants, so many contain white lead, which clogs up the pores. Light-weight clothing, and frequent hot bathing will keep away the odor—and you can use perfume talcum powder in the armpits as well.

Are there any good bust developers? Can you give me the names of some? Minerva.

Reply—I'm sorry, but I cannot give the names of preparations in this column.

The vault will rest on a stone foundation and will be in the center of the building. The vault will be about 10 feet square. Construction work on the walls will be started in a few days. The structure is being built on the corner of Tenth street and New York avenue.

Red Lights Again Burn
On Old Broadway; New
District Near the River

Housed in trim flats, El Paso's new "red light" district has opened at Tenth and San Jacinto streets, just two blocks from the Rio Grande and one block from the Mexico car line, with a population of approximately 15 women. Practically all of the occupants of the houses are former inhabitants of the "district" on San Jacinto street, formerly Broadway, and only one block from the business district. The district stands at the intersection of the streets, and is equipped with a saloon on one corner which supplies the "wet goods" for the inmates.

The new district was completed but a short time ago, and stands on a location formerly occupied by an adobe shack. It is isolated, the nearest house being fully three-quarters of a block away.

The new district was opened before the injunction suit of the Good Government club was filed, but was not entirely populated until notices were served on the occupants of the designated district to vacate.

To the Public.

As a candidate for the office of County Commissioner Precinct No. 1, El Paso I wish to state that it has been impossible for me to see personally all my friends. I realize that this office is an important one, and that it needs a business man, and one acquainted with local conditions. I have lived in El Paso 26 years, and I feel that my record as a citizen and a business man is clean. For the past three years, I have been associated with Norwood Hall in the Cattle and Real Estate business. I know local conditions and the needs of El Paso County. If elected to this important office, I pledge myself to give to my constituents the best there is in me, and a square deal to all. I most respectfully solicit the support of every citizen who has the interest of the County at heart.

TODAY'S DAINTIEST DISH
"COOKERY IS BECOME A NOBLE SCIENCE"

Stuffed Eggs

By CONSTANCE CLARKE.

STUFFED EGGS are delicious for a picnic luncheon, and if conveyed to their destination wrapped in dainty paper to keep them fresh, are sure to be appreciated. Cut green or yellow tissue paper into six-inch squares, fringe the ends, roll an egg in each, adding a slip of paper containing a fortune-telling rhyme written by the hostess.

Cut desired amount of hard-boiled eggs in halves crosswise; remove the yolks, then add an equal amount of cooked lean ham pounded to a paste and seasoned with salt and pepper, onion juice, French mustard, lemon juice and olive oil sufficient to make a smooth paste. Fill the eggs with this mixture and press the corresponding half closely upon it. Serve wrapped in paper in a small basket.

AMERICAN LOSES LIFE IN EFFORT TO SAVE A MEXICAN

Nogales, Ariz., July 21.—In the Andes mine, three miles from Patagonia, Harry Stevens lost his life in a vain attempt to save that of his fellow miner, Ramon Vidal, a Mexican. The latter had gone too quickly to the bottom of a shaft in which dynamite fumes still lingered after a blast. He was seen to fall and Stevens went to the rescue. But he, too, dropped when he entered the gas zone and both were dead when hoisted out.

EIGHT YEAR OLD GLOBE BOY
FINDS PISTOL; IS KILLED

Globe, Ariz., July 21.—James Stanfill, the eight year old son of Wallace B. Stanfill, foreman of the Old Dominion concentrator, is a victim of a revolver ignorantly handled.

The child had found the weapon in a drawer to which he had secured the key. In the absence of his parents, he was examining the pistol when a charge was exploded, the bullet entering below the chin and passing into the brain.

The mother found the boy dead when she returned.

SHE fly-fishes in her brother's boots, or her own 'y gracious! In smock and sun-hat, all for the joy of plopping about in water like jade—for woman is a wise mixie and knows that to go back to the childish way of intent animal pleasure is to dip the tagged-out spirit into the Spring of Youth and bring it out fresh again—all for the joy of slipping and sliding through rock, and diamond spray, and turning up the face to the sun. If she has a soft heart, and the code of real sportsmanship on her ten fingers, she will put back her fish after his fight into his crystal world again, or if she wants him, manlike, she will kill him quickly.
